Jury Gets Hall-Mills Murder Case This Afternoon

SPECIAL PROSECUTOR IN IMPASSIONED PLEA FOR CONVICTION OF THE TRIO

State Concludes As Court Quits At Noon Hour

WEALTH NOT ON TRIAL SAYS

Justice Parker In Charge To Jury After Lunch

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Dec. 3.—(AP)—The Hall-Mills case went to the jury at 1:44 p.m., today.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Dec. 3.—(AP)—Alexander Simpson, special prosecutor, in the Hall-Mills case, completed his argument to the jury at 12:06 and court recessed for an hour.

After Supreme Court Justice Charles W. Parker delivers his charge to the jury, upon reconvening, the case is expected to reach the jurymen at two o'clock.

Declaring again and again that "justice was lynched" four years ago when the investigation yielded no indictment, Simpson said that when the case was not properly chlorinated in the Middlesex county a special prosecutor was called in, but to no avail.

Referring to the statement of defense counsel that James Mills, husband of the slain woman, or Mrs. Jane Gibson, state eye witness, might have committed the crime, Simpson said he would prove that "Jenn'e." Mrs. Gibson's mule, might just as easily have been guilty.

"The most wonderful thing of all in this case," said Simpson, "is that wealth is not on trial, that wealth, with all its satellites, can be brought to trial."

Simpson told the jury that he was receiving no money for his part in the trial.

Referring to Charlotte and Danny Mills, children of Mrs. Mills, the prosecutor said they had been left alone with a "dumb fatter."

"Public conscience is going to decide this case, whatever you say, for it has got the evidence in the case," the prosecutor told the jury. He described Mrs. Mills as a woman with an empty heart, who had a husband not particularly inspirational.

"They intimate," he said, "but they don't dare say that she a harlot. They even go so far as to say the Ku Klux Klan is in favor of an acquittal in this case."

CALL IS MADE FOR STOCK PAYMENT

Ten Percent Call Sent To Subscribers In Local Company

A call for ten percent of the stock investment in the Textile-Kelley company, which company will erect the $600,000 building to house the first unit of the Connecticut Mills company, has been issued by Thomas A. Bowles, president. The initial payment was due December 1.

Mr. Bowles states in his call that the contract for the building is now in the process of being advertised and that the contract awards are expected to be made by December 20. Plans and specifications are now in the hands of contractors and the whole matter is moving forward with excellent dis-

The need for funds is immediate and the investors are expected to take care of their obligations at the earliest possible moment. Persons are asked not to force the usual tedious details of collection, but to send the check in the amount due to Thomas A. Bowles. Leaders explain that the sooner the necessary money is in hand, the sooner contracts can be awarded and the building started.

WIFE DISAPPEARS FROM HER HOME, RIVER SEARCHED

North Birmingham Is Scene of Unusual Mystery

HINTS SUICIDE IN HER LETTER

Money For Hat Given Back To Husband Before She Left

BIRMINGHAM, Dec. 3.—(AP)—The whereabouts of Mrs. F. Owens, wife of E. L. Owens, North Birmingham furniture dealer, and mother of four young children, who were seen early last Wednesday, still remained a mystery today.

Belief that she may have carried out a suicide threat contained in a note received by her husband Thursday, has caused much excitement.

The note, written on tablet paper, in pencil, was received by Mr. Owens through the mail at the Owens' Montgomery Furniture company, about 9 a. m. Thursday. It read: "Dear Mr. Owens: I am returning $4.00 of the money you gave me yesterday (amount $5.00) and have decided not to buy a hat or anything. Instead, I have decided to end it all. I am going somewhere on the Warrior river and jump in Good bye to you and the children. (Signed) Fannie."

The postmark on the envelope would indicate it was mailed at the terminal station or on a train about to pull out sometime Wednesday.

The only place on the Warrior river that Mrs. Owens had ever visited was near Lynn's crossing, about 15 miles from Birmingham, according to the husband.

She had been in swimming there several times.

None of the natives had seen a woman answering to her description.

Based on his belief that she would go there, if anywhere, two searching parties, composed of North Birmingham residents, searched the bank of Five Mile creek, Little and Big Warrior rivers, about 25 miles from Birmingham, Thursday afternoon, but to no avail.

Sale of the bonds would take care of improvements already made and paid for out of the general fund of the city. If the sale is ratified then the city will pass an ordinance authorizing the sale.

Other matters to come before the aldermanic board include the election of a regular police officer.

The city fathers likewise will discuss the passage of the license schedule. Opinions were given to-day that the schedule would be substantially the same as that of last year, with the possible provision that merchants be required to file statements of stock values.

Discussion is expected to center upon the latter point.

MAN BITTEN BY DOG

Jural Day, of Cullman, was attacked by a dog several days ago and, as a result, is taking treatment to prevent rabies. It is said Day was traversing a road, when the dog leaped upon him and the man fought a desperate battle of several minutes with the animal, which finally escaped into the woods.

LIGHT CONTRACT DEFERRED BY THE DECATUR COUNCIL

The matter of a new light contract, for street illumination, was deferred by the Decatur city council last night after a prolonged discussion of the provisions of the proposed new contract.

It was regarded as possible that the new contract will not be taken up until the expiration of the present contract next March.

Under the provisions of the contract offered the city, each of the present street lights would be replaced by a light of higher power, without additional cost to the municipality.

The rate, however, would remain the same as now charged and which is said to be in excess of the rate in some other

Moseley Is Hurt Badly In a Fall Of Twelve Feet

R. J. Moseley, popular manager of Moseley Central Shoe Co., is resting comfortably at his home today, though suffering painful injuries about the head. Mr. Moseley received the injuries in a 12-foot fall from the back of the A. & P. store Thursday at dusk.

Mr. Moseley is understood to have gone to the grocery establishment to make some purchases and started out the back way to his car which was parked in the alleyway, back of his own store. He is understood to have been talking with J. O. Windham, A. & P. manager, when he lost his footing and fell 12 feet to the ground. Dr. W. P. Baugh rendered medical assistance, the merchant having sustained a deep gash in the top of his head. He was taken to his home by Julian Strickland and is reported today to be resting comfortably. The injury may confine him to his home for several days.

MATCH COMPANY MAY ENTER VALLEY

Negotiations With the Power Company In Progress

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—(AP)—The Diamond Match company is negotiating for a part of the power at Muscle Shoals, with the view of manufacturing matches.

For sometime, reports have been circulated in Washington that the Diamond Match company contemplated making a bid for the whole property, but it developed today that they were in the market for only a part of the power.

The Alabama Power company, which now is leasing the power from the government, is understood to be willing to share a part of the cost with the match company and three-cornered negotiations now are in progress between the two companies and the government.

HENRY R. DAVIS IS CHOSEN LEADER OF KIWANIS FOR YEAR

Spirited Balloting In Annual Election of Club Officials

T. M. DIX WINS AS 1ST V-PRESIDENT

Club Successful In Jones Regime of the Past Year

Henry R. Davis, prominent Albany-Decatur business man, identified with Kiwanis efforts for several years, will lead that club through the coming year of activities in civic interests. Mr. Davis was elected Thursday evening in a meeting at the Y. M. C. A., along with other officials for the ensuing year.

After a lengthy session the election committee announced that the following ticket had won in the balloting: Henry R. Davis, president; T. M. Dix, first vice-president; John Patterson, second vice-president; J. R. Daniel, trustee; S. A. Lynne, J. B. McMath, L. R. Nash and J. C. White, directors.

Though the official count was not revealed the majority of club members voted a "split" ticket, two tickets having been selected by two nominating committees.

The voting is understood to have been very close. Fifty-eight members of the club recorded votes.

The newly chosen officials made brief talks at the invitation of A. A. Jones, retiring president, in which they proclaimed themselves ready for work and ready to accomplish greater results for their club and for the constructive civic interests of Albany-Decatur and the North Alabama section.

Kiwanians are highly pleased with the record made by A. A. Jones and his corps of official assistants during the past year. Kiwanis influence under Mr. Jones has prospered and the club has come to take a large place in the welfare and heart of these communities.

Many projects have been launched with signal success attending each conclusion to the varied projects.

Shoals Talk Will Be Made On Radio

Beginning at 8:00 p. m., Monday, December 6, radio station WAPI located at Auburn will feature a Muscle Shoals program, according to arrangements made by the management of the station and E. L. Deal, county agent, Florence.

Features of this program will be a discussion of "Muscle Shoals, its developments and possibilities," by William Richardson, president of the Florence Chamber of Commerce; "Agriculture of the Muscle Shoals district," by J. P. Yarbrough, county agent, Tuscaloosa, and "Minerals located in the Muscle Shoals district of value to the world," by J. E. Orman of Russellville. A musical program by local musicians will accompany these Muscle Shoals discussions.

Station WAPI operates on a wave length of 461 meters, and covers several states. It has been heard several times on the Pacific coast and one report was received from London.

NEW SCHOOLHOUSE LIKELY TO BE BUILT IN DECATUR

Residents of West Decatur soon may have a new school building on Ninth avenue. A petition, signed by approximately 75 residents of that section of Decatur, was presented to the city council at its meeting Thursday evening, asking that a building be erected on the property owned by the city on Ninth avenue, for use of the younger children, who now are forced to attend sessions in the LaFayette street building.

The council looked with favor on the proposal, but felt that the petition should properly be presented to the school board for its decision,

Big Leagues Will Send Teams To Play Games

KELLY BUSY WITH DETAIL

Thomas A. Bowles Has Letter From Head of Club

"You can consider the matter definitely closed," was the message contained in a letter today from George K. Beldon, president of the Minneapolis baseball club, to Thomas A. Bowles who headed a local delegation to negotiate with the ball club to make its spring training quarters here.

Mr. Beldon's letter states that the team will begin its six weeks training grind here about March 1 and that Manager Kelly is now arranging a series of ten games with major and minor league clubs. The detail of those arrangements will be known here probably next week.

Mr. Beldon's letter concluded that the negotiation started here some weeks ago through the Junior Chamber of Commerce when that body entertained the American Association club heads at a luncheon at the Lyons Hotel, as guests of Manager J. K. Hughes. The visiting representatives were shown the various points about the cities and at the time expressed belief that they would select this state for training quarters, stipulating that considerable work must be done at Malone Park, placing the field and training quarters in good condition.

Other Clubs Come

A series of perhaps ten games, is now being arranged by Manager Kelly of the Minneapolis club to be played with several big league entries, the names of which have not yet been made public. It is probable that minor league clubs will swing through here on their way to home ports from other spring training camps and that they will play exhibition games with the Minneapolis club.

The financial arrangement of these exhibition games is yet to be drawn into an actual agreement, but conditions already stipulated have found favor with club owners and with the local representatives.

Another Battle Won

Twin City people, who follow the activities of the Junior Chamber of Commerce will find in the announcement that these cities have obtained the Minneapolis club for the spring training, occasion to speak of the negotiation as "another battle won." The Junior Chamber has been working on such a proposition for several months, but it was not until a comparatively short time ago that the organization received the definite "lead" which led to the successful conclusion of the negotiation.

Thomas A. Bowles, prominent local banker, aided the Junior organization to large degree, conducting the negotiation with a business capability that brought success to the proposal.

With the coming here of the Minneapolis team the Twin Cities obtain a Class AA baseball club, second only to the major leagues, and gain prominence which only a comparative few other cities in the South enjoy.

WHEN THE PANCREAS MAKES A PROTEST

*Unobtrusive Organ Behind the Stomach Has Important Functions and It Objects to Food
Not Suitable to Its Purposes.*

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

YOU probably never knew you possess such an organ as the pancreas.

But you do. It may be described as a long and thin gland lying under and behind the stomach, just a little to the left side. It produces a liquid secretion. This is called the pancreatic fluid. The pancreas empties into the intestine very close to the point where the stomach contents pass into the intestinal canal.

The food on leaving the stomach is almost immediately mixed with the bile produced by the liver and with the fluid from the pancreas. The chief value of the pancreatic fluid is to dissolve such particles or masses of food as have not been liquefied by the stomach juices and the churning of that organ.

The juice from the pancreas does more than this. It helps to convert the starches we eat into sugar which can be dissolved and made useful to the body. The curd of milk, as well as the glutinous part of cereals are liquefied by the pancreatic fluid. The fat too which never becomes an oily mixture in the stomach is digested and emulsified by the pancreatic juice.

In this work the site is helpful, too. It also has much to do with preventing decomposition in the intestines. It stimulates the bowels and promotes their contraction.

After the bile and pancreatic fluid have helped and prepared the food it is time for the organ of being absorbed as far as possible. It could never do us any good if it remained in its initial form. The food to be useful must be dissolved.

This information makes it clear to you how important an organ the pancreas really is. Even though you never knew you had such a structure. It has been working for your good every day of your life. When it stops working you are in trouble.

One of the ailments which may involve the pancreas is called pancreatic insufficiency. This means, of course, that the organ is weak and does not perform as it should.

It is bad for us if the pancreas does not perform its function. Immediately we begin to lose the nourishing value of certain foods. They pass through the body undissolved and thereby too absorption is checked.

Burleson Sees A Better Spirit

"Times have changed and the people here are enthusiastic now over city building." This is the opinion of D. D. Burleson, local automobile dealer, who declared today that he could see no reason now why Albany-Decatur should not forge ahead rapidly.

"Of course, we have had our ups and downs, but there has been a gradual and substantial development. Now that the whole people are beginning to boost, and to cooperate in civic matters, I cannot help but predict a great city here."

HILL PLEASED TO COME FOR REPORT

Advanced Conditions In Building Prove An Attraction

Howard Hill, traveling representative of F. W. Dodge Corporation, compiling construction figures for the benefit of a large clientele over the state of Alabama and parts of Florida and Georgia, is pleased to visit these cities now, he stated today, as he noted substantial growth being made in industrial and building lines.

Mr. Hill stated that while Albany-Decatur used to be one of his poorest points, that now the condition had changed and the Twin Cities had become one of the very best. He saw an advanced condition here over the remainder of the state in building activities, with the exception of the Birmingham district.

"I like to come here now," said Mr. Hill. "I consider that the selection of this site by the Connecticut Mills Company is one of the largest projects in the whole state."

MEMPHIS BANKER SHORT IN ACCOUNT

Rush Parke Escapes
When Examiners
Check Books

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 3.—(AP)—Rush H. Parke, 30, bookkeeper for the American Savings Bank and Trust company, of Memphis, has disappeared, leaving shortages in his accounts which may reach $100,000.

Parke, entering the bank yesterday, saw bank examiners at work over his books. Excusing himself, he left the office, and has not been seen since.

The bookkeeper's action parallels a case of Courtney Glisson, teller for the Bank of Commerce and Trust company here, who disappeared several weeks ago, leaving shortages reaching nearly half a million dollars.

He has not been found.

The same two bank examiners who were checking Glisson's books were at work over Parke's accounts, when the bookkeeper walked away.

Harry Cohn, president of the American Savings Bank and Trust company, announced today that the bank was protected against the loss and that the institution has made the shortage good from its surplus and undivided profits.

While Glisson, in disappearing several weeks ago, took perhaps $5,000 in currency with him, Parke was believed to have gone without carrying any large sum in cash.

A report of Parke's disappearance and the shortage in his accounts was made by President Cohn to Memphis police, who today were making an intensive search for the missing bookkeeper.

CUTTER PATROLS GULF OF MEXICO

Tallapoosa Departs
In Quest of French
Rum Schooner

MOBILE, Dec. 3.—(AP)—The coast guard cutter Tallapoosa departed today for the Gulf of Mexico to patrol shipping lanes, proceeding in a box course to Havana, in a last effort to locate the missing rum schooner Arsené J., flying a French flag, which has J. B. Mathews, assistant district federal prohibition officer, and Coast Guardsman Handley on board as captives.

The Tallapoosa, it was stated, will work toward Havana while the Florida coast is being patrolled by coast guard ships from the Key West bay.

Opinion was expressed in shipping circles here today that the missing schooner should arrive in Havana tomorrow afternoon if headed for that port, or at Nassau early next week.

The Arsené J. is said to have been favored by good winds and under the circumstances is capable of making nine miles an hour.

TODAY
12 Years Ago

From The Daily of December 3, 1914.

Mrs. Thomas Carl left yesterday for Franklin, Tenn., after a visit to her daughter, Mrs. T. D. Wilkinson.

Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Cottner have returned from Memphis where they witnessed the Fred Hunt will entertain the Auction

Mr. and Mrs. Tracy Pratt of Huntsville are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Skeggs during the Tennessee River Association meeting.

Fred Hunt will entertain the Auction Bridge Club Friday at one o'clock with a luncheon.

Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Broads will entertain Gov. Chas. Henderson, Lieut.-Gov. Kilby and President Patton of the Rivers Association this afternoon at six o'clock.

The western state newspapers will be the next to pull that old gag about the Crimson Tide surging over an opposing force. Southern newspapers quit setting those lines, just kept them "standing" from week-end to week-end.

Give your home merchant a fair chance, give him your trade; help him to keep best stocks on his shelves, help him to be able to offer you lower prices. Do your Christmas shopping right here at home.

Congratulation to Mayor Malone for his foresight in building in a section of these cities, destined some day to become the heart of a city of 50,000 people. Buildings on Lee street will add greatly to the appearance of the street and bring hope anew of that boulevard from Wilson avenue to Ninth avenue, south. That may be a dream, but its worth dreaming.

THAT THOUGHT ABOUT DOING HARD WORK AND ITS SUPPRESSION.

Many a man has gone home at the end of the day with the prospect staring him in the face of having to work again that night. He has sighed as he settled into an easy chair and then wished that he could stay right in that chair the rest of the evening. Supper revives him somewhat, but he has to use something more than persuasion when he arises from his good meal, he has to do a bit of driving to get himself in shape for beginning all over again. He thinks he is having a pretty tough time of it, actually he is in better shape than he dreams.

Consider the establishment of a business, consider the besetting difficulties, the hard work of the first man who tried the job, his overwhelming duties, his continued strain, his stickability to something which was not so remunerative, something that wasn't a great deal more than an ideal with a vast amount of personal pride attached. That is the job that faced the man who sought to establish and when he finished his job and turned the product over for betterment at the hands of the next, why it was in running shape and the age of specialization had brought more workmen. He had only one man's job to do well.

That's one of the easiest ways to suppress any belief that things are so rough. A little delving into the past shows most of us that things are pretty soft after all.

SOMETHING TO BE PROUD OF AFTER ALL IN COTTON YIELDS.

The cotton price went low, stayed low and still is low, farmers are hard hit, some business sections are hard hit, yet, when we look at the cotton figures compiled by six north Alabama counties there is something to be proud of after all.

There's Madison county, Limestone, Cullman, DeKalb, Elmore and Morgan, a lineup leading the state in cotton yield, proving that lands in the north Alabama section grow a better product, a product in larger quantity than other counties. Of course the immense cotton yield does not mean anything to us right now, but speculators point to next July and August as a point for selling the 1926 yield. If we can hold on until that time then we will have something for this immense crop. We will have money along with the largest yield in the state.

It makes one feel pretty good to know that his section or his county does things just a little bit ahead of other counties. That is what this six county line-up has done, grown more cotton than the other counties in the state, another proof that north Alabama leads. Come to think of it there are very few things in which north Alabama does not lead and we always manage to find Morgan county lurking right close to the top. Say, this Morgan county is a mighty good place to live after all, even if we do have a temporary setback because the cotton market fails to rise. That day is coming, so let's hold on to the yield if possible, then we can cash in on some of our agricultural prominence.

SLEEPING MAY CAUSE RESTFULNESS, BUT IS IT TIME GAINED?

Physicians and scientists have given the "pro and con" of the sleep argument, some declaring that great amount of sleep is a necessity, others finding that too much sleep is harmful. Edison, the inventor, is one espousing the latter cause, he has lived, learned and earned on little sleep and today is still a joy to the efficiency expert.

The person who can train himself, or herself, to sleep six or seven hours is extremely fortunate, the system once regulated to that amount of rest will respond quickly as to the eight hour law which has been recognized since the writing of books became recognized as a profession. More than eight hours sleep is a nuisance, cutting that length still shorter is much better, provided we can actually keep fit, on the toes and ready to go. However, utilization of that gained hour, or hours, in pursuit of knowledge, work, labor, is the correct utilization. There are already some few who can exist on two or three hours sleep, report for work on time in the morning and be half asleep through the hours of the afternoon. One is fortunate who can sleep seven hours and add that extra hour to his work. He will find that he is producing better results for himself and if in the employ of another he will soon find the recognition he is expecting.

DAVIS IS CHOSEN TO LEAD KIWANIS THROUGH NEXT YEAR.

Henry R. Davis, prominent business man, has been chosen to lead the Albany-Decatur Kiwanis club through the mass of next year's activities, taking the place of A. A. Jones, retiring president who has wrought well and accomplished results. Mr. Davis takes a difficult position, but a position his club members believe he will fill capably.

Under the new regime the Kiwanis Club has nothing more or less than hard work to combat. The word "combat" is used for the reason that hard work means fight, fight against the inherent desire in most of us to let the other fellow do the hard work. Mr. Davis takes the reins of the Kiwanis Club at a time when that club will enter a maze of activities foreign to these cities, foreign to north Alabama, activities which will become singular factors in the limelight of progress. Albany-Decatur is destined to emerge from the shell of years of inactivity within the next year. We do not mean to say that Albany-Decatur has not progressed during the past year, or in other years for that matter, but honestly and frankly the progress made in the past years can hardly be termed circumstance when the future is looked upon, even, through conservative eyes. Albany-Decatur is at the threshold, the Twin Cities are on the brink of becoming a city of 50,000 people and the Kiwanis Club must play an important part. Responsibility will rest heavily upon that club as an organization and upon the individual membership. Combined efforts are going to be necessary within the next year, hard work, earnest work, work of ability, all needed within the short space of the coming year. The Kiwanis Club cannot halt, in fact it must increase its influence in building this city on the south shore of the Tennessee.

To Mr. Jones the Daily offers a parting word, an appreciative word for service well done. He has directed well, gone early and stayed late when his civic duties called, he has been an honorable leader for his club. To Mr. Davis the Daily can wish only the best in success and office, as it offered Mr. Jones, the very best service the paper can give in any sort of project which means the constructing of this city we all dream.

CURB MARKET PLAN GETS AWAY TO AN EXCELLENT START.

The curb market plan has been explained to producers and consumers, the market is rapidly becoming a reality, as the result of a meeting held Thursday morning at the Y. M. C. A.

The Daily has sponsored the curb market, feeling that agricultural trade and agricultural selling profitably, is the biggest "bet" the cities and Morgan county have at this time. The Daily feels good over the start, feels happy that farm people responded, is glad that some of the local merchants saw fit to attend, this newspaper appreciates the representative delegation from the local federation of woman's clubs. Keep this in mind too—the farmer appreciates such interest.

This newspaper has been working for the farm movement which will increase the number of farm products and therefore would be expected to say that the beginning is successful, but such a statement does not come from the Daily, it comes from Miss Sallye Hamilton, home demonstration agent, who has worked twice as hard as this newspaper in an effort to sell the farmer on his own benefits. Miss Hamilton was more than pleased with the beginning and made the prediction that success is already in sight.

Success is going to prove a two-fold matter, the farmer must first produce to the satisfaction of the consumer and the consumer must then buy to the satisfaction of the producer. That is the success or the failure of the curb market summed briefly.

The curb market is very much like other civic propositions, it can be successful, or it can fail, at the dictate of the public, according to the earnestness of the leaders in the movement. Albany-Decatur leaders have long since learned the lesson that when one is appointed to lead that it means actual leadership and not the appointment of additional committees to perhaps do the work. This curb market establishment is going to take plenty of difficult work, it has already proved itself to be nothing less than a task, a delightful task however, for it means that something else beneficial is in store for these cities and this good country.

The prediction of a slow start should not prove disappointing to leaders, that is expected, all the farmers in this section are not going to be on the selling line with their products the first time the market doors are opened. If there are a dozen present then the early work will be well repaid, if there are as many as fifty Albany-Decatur housewives at the first market then that will prove far beyond expectation, but it is a beginning and that's what we have been trying for over these many months.

The Daily makes no predictions, hopes only for success and expects that with the success of the plan that there will be increased business for Albany-Decatur, better products on Albany-Decatur tables and a little more sunshine to break through the monotony of drudgery in the farm home.

What other cities in this state have accomplished in the curb market has been almost phenomenal.

Tuscaloosa county had a gross business, estimated, of over $83,000 for the 30 month period in which the market was established. Figures on other counties are not available at the present, but it is easily guessed that they have been equally as successful, reports from various cities have been glowing.

What other cities in this state can do, that Morgan county can better. Morgan county's curb market will prove the best in this state after it has been underway even for a short while. Talk the market, keep it live, tell your neighbor, get ready to spend some of your money in Morgan county for Morgan county products, you couldn't buy better no matter where the product happened to have been grown.

moral backbone and courage to speak and vote their true convictions.—Dothan Eagle.

SHELTERED CURB MARKET IS JUST WHAT WAS NEEDED

Calhoun's Curb Market is being provided with shelter for unfriendly weather. This is a splendid move and will insure an uninterrupted marketing season through the winter months, thus making the curb in every way an all-the-year affair.

Senator Underwood is also out of line with the thought of the majority of Alabamians, but that does not necessarily indicate that he is not the most able man to ever represent the state in the senate. Underwood is not a good politician—he has not seen fit to pussyfoot when pussyfooting was in order. On the contrary he has spoken his mind plainly when great issues were at stake, and this trait, never found in your party politician, has meant his downfall. It has required pure courage, for Underwood knew that sooner or later it would mean his doom.

Underwood is not in line with the thought of Alabama or the Democratic party for the simple reason that he is bigger and broader intellectually than the state which prefers Heflins and Blacks to represent it, and the political party which thinks brains of the McAdoo type are fit to direct the destinies of the nation.

If Underwood is for Al Smith his reasons are sincere and honest, and we have greater respect for these virtues, so rarely found in modern political life, than we have for the blather or pussyfooting politicians who haven't enough intelligence and skill to be of any value.

The Curb Market has abundantly proven its value both to the city and the county, and the longer it is maintained the greater will be the service rendered by it. It has had a marked effect, in increasing Anniston's rural trade through bringing many farmers and their wives with a place for the ready disposal of farm products and of giving Anniston housewives a trading place where they can get the very things they wish from the country, conveniently and at reasonable prices.

The Curb Market is for Al Smith his reasons are sincere and honest, and we have greater respect for these virtues, so rarely found in modern political life, than we have for the blather or pussyfooting politicians who haven't enough

Long Line Effects on Abbreviated Skirts

Evening Frocks Combine the Modish Long and Short Lines.

By Annette Bradshaw.

SKIRTS have lost none of their abbreviated air, but we notice that many of the smartest evening frocks make the most of the grace imparted by a long line.

If skirts cannot be really long and still comply with fashion, they can dip to greater lengths at certain parts, and achieve added grace and smartness by the contrast in the length.

Take the black chiffon velvet gown at the left, for instance. Its skirt is up to the conventional shortness in front, but from here it dips away at either side until it just escapes the floor at the back. And see how much more effective such an arrangement is than if the skirt were evenly short all the way around.

At the right we have a short straight frock, to be sure, but the long, graceful line is given by chiffon panels which drop from the shoulders to the floor. The dress is of a lovely soft green crepe, with plain upper part and crystal embroidery on the skirt. The floating panels may be caught up over the arm when the wearer dances, like the trains of a few seasons back.

Sometimes again, the longer line is imparted by chiffon flounces falling far down from the skirt, and also giving the uneven line that is so much in vogue. This line is needed for grace, in the evening frock especially.

Garnett who was the lucky guest. Delicious refreshments were enjoyed by those present.

Tolstoy Sees Russian Literature At Lowest Ebb; Ruined By Unrest

BY MILLER HOLLAND
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—Russian literature is at the lowest ebb it has ever reached in many years, according to Count Ilya Tolstoy, eldest son of Leo Tolstoy, the Russian novelist.

"Until then, I see no uplift of Russian art."

"Such men are Gorkey, Artzibushoff, Romonoff and many others are waiting for political and revolutionary smoke to clear away. This will clear their minds and permit their giving expression in art and literature."

Tolstoy mentioned a Russian woman, Seyulina, by name. He predicts much for this literary genius, but not until Russia is calm."

The count feels there is a new generation of brilliant minds capable of "warrying on" the achievements of Leo Tolstoy and other famous Russian writers, since dead. He praises the Moscow Art Guild, declaring this is one of the firmest steps toward establishing a new era of literature in Soviet Russia.

Helpful Advice to Girls

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am afraid "Wanta Know," the girl who wrote you the other day about petting, is going to be very much disappointed, like I am. If she is not careful.

A year ago I fell in love with a man who was as old as I. For awhile I would not let him pet me, but then I thought he would think me old-fashioned.

He wanted to marry me at first but since I've let him pet me he seems to have forgotten about it.

I still go with him. All he thinks about is petting. I do not like it at all and now he even says to me that if he were not so old he would have me for his wife. I know this is not the reason. Please tell me what to do?

BLUE EYES: The man is not worth a second thought. The quicker you forget him, the better.

You must realize that the future will hold little happiness for you if you persisted in your love for so un-worthy a man. He is doubly bad because he is twice your age and more experienced in the ways of the world.

Forget him. Seek companions of your own age.

Change In White Sox Management Is a Surprise In Sporting Circles

BY T. J. O'CONNELL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

FORT WORTH, Tex.—Announcement that Ray "Cracker" Schalk, White Sox first string catcher, has been named by President Charlie Comiskey to succeed Eddie Collins as manager of the Pale Hose in his last two seasons; Claude "Lefty" Williams, running Cicotte a close second in brilliance of mound effort. And, last, McMullen versatile infielder.

Only two of the once mighty White Sox team of 1917, 1918, and 1919 are now in Chicago—Schalk, himself, and Urban "Red" Faber, the great spitballs from Cascade, Iowa.

The Chicago American League team of 1919 has been regarded by sporting experts generally as the greatest aggregation of players ever gathered together on one team and came to be known as "The Million Dollar Team."

When the famous scandal exposing the White Sox-Cincinnati Reds world series of 1918 shook the baseball world, President Comiskey, in one magnificent gesture, smashed the mighty team he had taken years to build, and $1,000,000 worth of baseball stars, soiled and grimy, but none the less stars, were thrown on the scrap heap.

Names to conjure with! The mighty Joe Jackson, undoubtedly one of the greatest natural ball players of all time, the lovable but uneducated "Shoeless Joe;" "Happy" Felsch, centerfielder, without peer; Chick Gandil, one of the finest first basemen of his day; Charlie "Swede" Risberg, the erratic but scintillating shortstop;

Now Eddie Collins is gone. The fastest thinking second baseman we ever seen has been slipping for the past two seasons. The old agility has been leaving his legs, as it was bound to do sometime. The lightning dart for the grounder, the quick whirl and snap throw to second for the start of a double play lacked the old pep for the past two seasons.

Two pitchers, two outfielders, a backstop and a second baseman was what Comiskey had left of his great ball team.

Shano Collins and Leibold soon went the trade route. Dick Kerr took up pro baseball to return later to his old team but the cunning had left his great little southpaw and he is no longer in the big show. Schalk, Faber and Collins only remained.

Mrs. Tut Could Give Advice To 1927 Flappers

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—(INS)—

Mrs. Tut, wife of the late Egyptian pharaoh, the finding of whose tomb created such a furor several years ago, was not a hit show and might even give modern girls a few hints on speed, according to Prof. H. H. von der Osten, Oriental Institute, University of Chicago.

Prof. Osten, who recently returned from an expedition to Hittite cities, declared today that Mrs. Tut, just a few days after she had buried her youthful spouse, wrote a delicate note to a Hittite ruler offering her hand in marriage. The hieroglyphic records failed to disclose whether the ruler availed himself of the offer.

More than 55 cities were unearthed by the expedition and scientific data of cities more than 6,000 years old secured.

Mrs. Chaplin Does Not Seek Divorce

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 3.—(AP)—Mrs. Charles Spencer Chaplin has no intention, at present, of divorcing her millionaire screen comedian husband. Instead, she made it clear after a conference with her attorney today, that legislation for separation will be instituted and a cash settlement asked.

The comedy purveyor, however, does not propose to permit his former wife to proceed with her present plans without a court's offensive. Chaplin broke his silence last night to deny charges of cruelty brought by his wife, declaring he would fight for the custody of their two sons, Charles, aged two, and Sidney, aged one.

Courtland Road Action Desired

Local people and people of Lawrence county are still awaiting action on the part of the Kiwanis club upon the repairing of the Courtland-Decatur highway, according to word received here today. The club adopted a plan several months ago expecting to go before the board of revenue to ask for some appropriation on that thoroughfare. A committee was named, but is understood never to have gone before the revenue body. Meanwhile, the road gets in a steadily worse condition and while there is no danger of getting stuck in mud, there is an ever present danger of broken springs and other auto damage.

The Cullman circuit court is in session this week, with Judge O. Kyle presiding. Solicitor D. C. Allison is representing the state in what may be his final presentation as solicitor. He will retire from office in January.

Don't Tell the Wife

BY WILLIAM B. COURTNEY
Copyright 1926 Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.
"DON'T TELL THE WIFE," starring Irene Rich, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.SYNOPSIS.
Ranny Forbes, star polo player, and his beautiful wife, Joan, are temperamental mismatched. Joan wants a divorce; but Ranny concedes to his claim. Ranny, that he loves her. He secretly discovers that she loves another man, Abner Gratzman. Stivermer, lumber king with whom Ranny's team in the International Match. Victory will mean business good will. Ranny learns that the wager is with Abner Gratzman. Abner Marts with Joan as the game progresses. This unnerves Ranny, and he loses the game for the Americans. Vengeful, he drives the ball over the sidelines at Abner, but hits Stivermer. After the game, when he goes to take Joan home, he finds her gone—apparently with Abner.

CHAPTER VI

The dried-blood red of the October twilight glowed dullly behind a stark bank of tall locust trees to the west of the exclusive club's grounds. It stained the landscape near and far with a spectral russet tinge. A sombre, melancholy color. A shadowy color that matched the depression in Ranny's heart; the loneliness of autumn night and fading love. Had he come to the autumn of his married life with Joan? Were the withering leaves dropping in the once bright garden of their love, to bloom no more?

Would the frost of love's winter soon tighten its white fingers around Joan's heart and freeze hard the remembrance of springtime's eager frost? Hide forever under the snow and ice of indifference the picture of the dashing knight of polo field and battlefield who had ridden, resolute, with his shoulder to the chest at heart.

Usually the life of such a party, Ranny would have been sorely out of place in there at present. He swung the big car out upon the

LONDON FASHION GOSSIP

By International News Service

LONDON.—The "one-eye hat" vogue has come into fashion in England. With it has arrived what is known during the war as the "dainty 'one-eye' fashion."

Many British women have adopted the "uniform" felt hat as a more or less permanent form of headgear. When they require a new hat they merely telephone their hatter and tell him the size.

Adjusting the little felt hat with a smart tilt, the wearer pulls it down sharply over the right eye, in such a manner that this member of her face is almost completely hidden from view.

The mode has a certain effective and color wanted, and a new hat comes along, without any of the recognized thrills of feminine hat-buying.

The only variation of fashion which the felt hat brigade permit themselves is a seasonal change in the manner of wearing the hat. That is why, instead of pulling the hat well down over both eyes, with a straight adjustment of brim, the mode of the moment is the daintily "one-eye" fashion.

El Paso Only City of 110,000 People With Only 100 Frame Dwellings

(By International News Service)

EL PASO, Texas.—No other city in Texas and only a few in the United States as large as El Paso can boast a population of 110,000 persons with only slightly more than 100 frame buildings within its limits.

And while El Paso, being a resort city, is swarming with apartment houses and family homes, it contains more than 17,000 residences.

The reason for the absence of frame houses in El Paso is directly due to the inability many years ago to get lumber and the availability of brick in plenty. The predominance of brick buildings fur-a personnel of 95 employees and 12 apparatus serve El Paso and the upper and lower Rio Grande valley over an area of probably 20 square miles. And until recently the El Paso department has answered calls in Juarez, Mexico across the river.

The frame houses now in the city were erected either before the ordinance was passed or were taken into the city by annexation. The small number of frame structures slowly is dwindling as fires consume a number of them each year and brick and stucco edifices replace them in compliance with the ordinance provisions.

El Paso stands seventh in the United States in low annual fire losses. During the last nine years annual toll has averaged approximately $150,000.

In addition to what it saves property, the ordinance has saved the city large sums of money in insurance premiums, fire departments and immediate demand.

HONOLULU.—A group of college boys from the University world cruise liner Ryndam had the thrill of their lives on their first day in Honolulu when by accident they came under fire from the shotgun of a Chinese rice planter. The group, which included John Rosenthal, son of Moritz Rosenthal of the Hupmobile board of directors, were enjoying the loan of a nice, new "Hup" from the Honolulu agency. After a tour of the city and some of the suburban districts, they found themselves on the opposite side of town from the Moana hotel, their destination. Taking a narrow branch road which led in the general direction of the Moana, they were soon in the middle of a field of ripening rice. They swung around a bend in the road just as the rice planter let fly in the same direction at a flock of rice birds who were having a feast at his expense. Bird shot sprinkled the car liberally, but fortunately none of the students were hit. The rice planter, as much frightened as the boys, hurried over to the car and offered profuse pidgin-English apologies.

This is swordfish season in Hawaiian waters. Warm, clear days and crisp, cloudless nights with scarcely a breeze stirring, give the islands at this time of year a touch of weather closely akin to "Indian summer" on the mainland. The sea becomes unusually quiet, whitecaps disappear, and the surface takes on a glassy appearance disturbed only at long intervals by slow moving ground swells. At such periods the swordfish come to the surface after small fish. Off the Kona district, Island of Hawaii, some splendid catches of swordfish have been reported. Charles R. Frazier, a Honolulu realtor brought in a 250-pounder on regulation tackle recently in Kona waters.

In the channel between Oahu and Kauai islands, the big fish appear to be especially numerous and the commercial fishermen, notably the Japanese, are making big hauls. One afternoon during the past week a Japanese sampan brought in two big fish, one weighing 520 pounds and the other 635. These were not taken on regulation tackle, but they have given local sportsmen a decided yearning to go out into the channel and see what can be done with split bamboo pole and 24-thread line.

The "Soap-box," Honolulu's one-time famous political noon-hour forum, is dead—"pau" insomuch as its originator, "Two-Gun" Jack Mokumai, is concerned. Following the recent primary campaign, Mokumai declared that politics aren't what they used to be, and declined to carry on during the campaign for the general elections.

"Yes, I take a divorce from my soap box and now I got nothing more to do with it," Mokumai announced. "Soap box one time nice, clean place for politics, but now all Tommy, Dicky, Harris go there and talk, talk foolish and some time he swear, too. So I quit. I not got time for foolin' and I'm goin' give all my attention for my business."

A series of experiments carried on by the U. S. Agricultural experiment station here during the last five years has shown that the canning and preserving of avocados or alligator pears, either in their entirety with the shells removed, or in the form of a paste or prepared cocktail, is entirely possible. At present there is a quarantine against the shipment of Hawaiian avocados into the United States, due to the existence of the Mediterranean fruit fly in the Hawaiian islands. It is believed that experiments in preserving this fruit will enable surplus avocados to be utilized for shipment to the mainland in a commercial way.

LOS ANGELES.—A western distribution plant for Ford products will be built on a 40-acre tract between Los Angeles and Long Beach, it was learned today.

A ship that will accommodate three or four ocean-going vessels of Henry Ford's great fleet will be part of the plant, which, in its entirety, represents an investment of several million dollars.

The plant and wharfage space will be so arranged that materials used in manufacturing Ford cars can be unloaded from the ships in the regular Ford assembly line.

The plant, it was said, will supply inland Ford dealers on the Pacific coast, thereby saving the large railroad freight bills caused by distribution from Detroit.

threat to human life in the United States today. S. Herbert Wolfe, father of War Risk insurance, declared here in an exclusive interview.

"With the possible exception of an unexpected epidemic or a war, poisonous liquors threatens more lives than any disease known," Wolfe declared. "It is already undermining the future health and welfare of the nation. If better liquor isn't substituted, we are going to have the greatest death rate we have ever known. The signs are apparent with an increase in heart and kidney troubles."

Exhibitors from nearly every state in the far west were represented in the annual Dog Show here November 27 and 28.

Francis X. Bushman, Harold Lloyd, and Norman Kerry exhibited Great Danes.

Pups from Denver, El Paso and Portland, Ore., were among those present.

Catalina Island, off the coast of Southern California, is becoming extremely popular for movie "location" sets. Many of the most important productions of the past year were filmed in the quiet coves and rugged canyons of the island.

Four pictures are now being filmed at the Isthmus, of which the biblical feature, "The King of Kings," is attracting greatest interest. Just beyond this set, Harold Lloyd and his company are making "The Mountain Boy."

Rupert Julian is directing "The Yankee Clipper," featuring William Boyd, near the Isthmus; and Rod La Roque is sailing around the island in "The Cruise of the Jasper B."

Paramount filmed two great pictures at Catalina recently, "Old Ironsides," and "The Eagle of the Sea." Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Cape Cod Folks" was taken entirely in this vicinity.

Catalina is popular because the rest of Southern California has been sub-divided.

After eight years of work in the movies, Julia Faye, the Tartar maid of "The Volga Boatman," was given her first leading role. She will star in "Turkish Delight," a comedy of the hidden harems written especially for the screen by Irvin S. Cobb.

Fred Niblo, director of "Ben-Hur" and "The Temptress," believes that "unhappy endings" should be dictated by the characters, themselves, and regardless of box-office protests.

"The purpose of pictures," Niblo explained, is to portray life. Life does not always deal kindly with its subjects. The director added that Camille which he is now directing with Norma Talmadge as the star, will not have a "happy ending." "The Temptress" with Greta Garbo had an "unhappy ending," an ending consistent with the characters Niblo added.

A Record Breaking Year of Telephone Expansion

DECEMBER will mark the completion of the largest telephone construction program ever undertaken in the South.

New telephone buildings, additional central office equipment, vast quantities of aerial and underground cable and hundreds of miles of long distance circuits have been installed to keep pace with the growth of the South.

Much of this work has been unseen and unknown to telephone users, but the service has continued without interruption during its progress.

Expected Loveliness In French Girl Not Lacking In Renee Adoree

John Gilbert and Renee Adoree in "The Big Parade" at Princess Tuesday, December 14.

When women think of their sisters in France they generally have in their mind's eye visions of laces and lingerie, wondrous gowns, striking coiffures, delicate perfumes, cosmetics that challenge nature, in short, women arrayed in all of the splendor with which the Queen of Sheba allured King Solomon and Cleopatra bewitched the mighty Caesar. So when they hear that the heroine of King Vidor's picturization of Laurence Stallings' story of our boys overseas is a French girl they naturally enough picture such a vision of loveliness. And a vision of loveliness they behold, but how different!

Renee Adoree, who plays the role of Melisande in "The Big Parade," is indeed "adorable," but she wears no frills or furbelows. Clad in the picturesque garb of a country maid and wearing sabots she yet wins the heart of the wealthy young hero, Jim Apperson, played by John Gilbert, and also wins the heart of the audiences as well.

Going To Extremes

It is a tendency of nations as well as individuals, when they see something new to forge ahead in an effort to acquire it to the exclusion of all other things. It is possible, thus, for a nation to go to an extreme and absorb unwholesome things. I do not mean that ideas from America and from Europe are wrong but the tendency to forget the old things entirely is very dangerous.

"In America, for example, the balance between scientific progress and spiritual development is very good. Japan, however, is neglecting the spiritual side and thus her national life is not well balanced.

"Although the nation must be economically sound she must also be true to the moral precepts handed down from the past."

Japan's economic unity and morality, Viscount Shibusawa thinks, is likewise a need of the world in general. He believes that the world war was caused by the over emphasis of economics to the neglect of morality.

TOKIO.—"Japan today is suffering from extreme efforts to apply her recently acquired scientific knowledge. She is absorbed in that to the exclusion of the spiritual virtues she has inherited from the past. Foreign ideas have become an obsession."

Viscount Eiichi Shibusawa, "Grand Old Man" of Japanese business and outstanding leader for more than half a century in the nation's economic and cultural development, gave, in the words quoted, his view of what he regards as the most serious problem Japan is facing today. In an exclusive interview with International News Service he declared that a finer balance between the old and the new; between the material and the spiritual is the greatest need of the nation.

Was First Banker
Viscount Shibusawa is 86 years old. He was fourteen when Commodore Perry and his famous "black ships" first appeared off the shores of Nippon to open this country to intercourse with the Occident. He founded Dai-Ichi Ginko, the first bank in Japan, in 1873. Since that time scarcely a single business enterprise has been launched in Japan that he has not touched in some way.

Now he has retired from active business life. The personal fortune that he might have made he has turned back, largely, into business channels. In his later years he is devoting himself chiefly to cultural enterprises and to efforts to advance the economic and spiritual welfare of Japan.

"Japan is an old country," Viscount Shibusawa went on, "and for centuries her contact was with India and China. Confucianism and Buddhism were imported from these countries more than 1,000 years ago. Something very fine developed in our national life during those centuries and has been handed down to the present generation."

"It is only 60 years ago since we came into contact with the West. This was through the United States and we owe and acknowledge a debt to America. But some of the ideas that we have imported from the West during the last 60 years have not been thoroughly assimilated, perhaps be-dence as well as all the soft greens. While black costumes are more suitable for winter, now and again one will see a costume with the familiar little black velvet reefer and Rasmus is showing a very smart ensemble which has a long straight, tailored coat bound with black satin.

Fabrics will probably be much the same with a lot of changeable silks, rays, silk jersey in plain and fancy weaves. Leather duveline, crepe royal and artificial silk used for coats.

Many new kinds of plating are seen and there seems to be a decided amount of very fine straight plating in many frocks, arranged to give a bolero or semi-bolero line.

Sleeves are varied as usual and skirts have irregular hem with normal waists are seen in greater sharp points as a note of interest. Quantities and there is a marked tendency to gore skirts in several different ways.

Worth is showing some delightful little sleeveless jackets to be worn over plain frocks. They come in wine shades, blue, beige and black.

FAMOUS FRENCH RECIPES

PARIS.—"Basque Cake" comes from the picturesque region which lies between France and Spain.

For six persons mix one-fourth pound of butter, one-fourth pound powdered sugar, a whole egg and a little rhum or lemon juice.

Work well in a terrine, first mixing the butter and sugar, then adding the flour and making a paste which will not stick to the hands.

Roll out as for a tart about one inch thick and line a buttered mold with it. Cover with jam or a thick cream. Cover over with another crust. Rub with the yolk of an egg and bake in a moderate oven for one hour.
